SUVO SORTNO ROZE

PINOT NOIR

Ni roze, ni crno vino, nego RUŽA!

Ovaj tip vina je bio vrlo tipičan za roze vina u Španiji i na jugu Francuske (Roussillon, Aude, Bandol...) iz više razloga. Naime, svako domaćinstvo koje je posedovalo vinograde, imalo je svoj roze za domaću upotrebu. Ovo vino se dobija od sorti Grenache, Mourvèdre, Syrah, Carignan, Tempranillo... U pitanju je grožđe jake crvene boje i sa tradicionalnom vinifikacijom vina su bila obojena sa više ili manje ekstrakta i strukture, ali znatno svežija od crvenih vina od istih sorti.

Ta vina su prilagođena ishrani stanovništva u pomenutom geografskom prostoru, dakle, piju se uz prženu morsku ribu, lignje, povrće pečeno na planci (plavi patlidžan, paprika, paradajz, tikvice...), tvrde sireve i suhomesnate proizvode chorizo, pršutu i šunku.

Danas su ova vina zanemarena, potisnuta nešto bleđim roze vinima sa vrlo slabom strukturom koja se piju kao osvežavajući napitak na terasi pored bazena ili na plaži. Može se reći da ovaj tip rozea predstavlja modni trend i da je nastao kao proizvod moderne tehnologije u vinarstvu, te da u savremenom vinarstvu ima svoje mesto među ostalim vinima.

Napomena:

Naša Ruža povezuje francusku i srpsku tradiciju, i ukoliko ste gurman ili još bolje gurmanka, probajte ovo vino uz vojvođanski Draganov kulen!

DRY VARIETAL ROSE

PINOT NOIR

Neither rose nor red wine, but ROSE!

This type of wine was very typical of rosé wines in Spain and southern France (Roussillon, Aude, Bando...) for several reasons. Namely, every household that owned vineyards had its own rose for domestic use. This wine is obtained from the varieties Grenache, Mourvedre, Syrah, Carignan, Tempranillo... It is a strong red grape and with traditional vinification the wines are colored more or less extract and structure, but significantly fresher than red wines from the same variety.

These wines are adapted to the diet of the population in the mentioned geographical area, so they are drunk with breaded sea fish, squid, grilled vegetables (eggplant, peppers, tomatoes, zucchini...), hard cheeses and cured meats, chorizo, prosciutto and ham.

Today, these wines have been neglected, replaced by slightly lighter rosé wines with a very weak structure that are drunk as a refreshing drink on a terrace by the pool or on the beach. It can be said that this type of rosé is a fashion trend and that it was created as a product of modern technology in winemaking, and that in modern winemaking it has its place among other wines.

Short maceration, less than 24 hours, gives this beautiful light ruby color, the fruity character of fresh cherries and wild strawberries. Elegant tannins and cherry pits give it a long-lasting taste.

Note:

Our rosé combines French and Serbian traditions, and if you are a gourmet, or even better, a gourmet, try this wine with Dragan's Vojvodina kuleni!
